

DAILY DIGEST

Tariffs add fuel to Brent's fire

- Macro: US imposed 10-12.5% tariffs on trading partners, while Indonesia relaxed export earnings retention rules for China, Australia and Canada.
- Fixed Income: Further UST weakness is expected to pressure regional bonds as Brent trades above USD100/bbl. Malaysia raised USD1.5bn via dual-tranche sovereign sukuk (5.75-year and 10-year).
- FX: The DXY rose 0.3% as Brent climbed above USD100/bbl, lifting Fed rate hike expectations and weighing on ASEAN currencies, led by the IDR.

Global macro wrap

- Global: The Trump administration imposed 10%-12.5% tariffs on around 60 trading partners under Section 301, citing trade partners' failure to address issues on forced labor. The new levies took effect Friday, replacing the temporary 10% global tariff that expired under Section 122. Countries that have reached trade agreements with the US received carveouts. Brent revisited USD100/bbl – its first breach of that level in two months – as US strikes entered a 13th consecutive night, with military activity reported near the strategic ports of Ahvaz and Bandar Abbas. Asian refiners are exploring alternative routes for Saudi crude, including Egypt's Sidi Kerir terminal, smaller Suez Canal cargoes and around Africa.
- ASEAN: Indonesia's Coordinating Minister Airlangga said China, Australia and Canada will qualify for lighter export earnings rules under bilateral and multilateral trade agreements, with eligible natural-resource exporters required to retain only 30% of export proceeds domestically for at least three months. Separately, PT Danantara Asset Management (DAM) acquired four state-owned asset managers into, with consolidated AUM reaching IDR170tr as of Jun. President Prabowo said Danantara targets closing 250 SOEs by end-Jul, generating IDR50tr in overhead savings, with the longer-term goal of reducing SOEs to 350 and increasing savings to IDR70-80tr. Thailand's Energy Minister Akanat announced a three-week THB2.4/litre cut in ex-refinery diesel prices by tapping excess refining, while the electricity tariff will remain at THB3.95/unit through 2026.

Fixed Income

- Global: Global bond selloff deepened after Brent surged above USD100/bbl following reports of Houthi attacks on oil tankers off Saudi Arabia's coast. The UST curve bear-flattened for a third consecutive session, with the 10Y yield breaching 4.70% as markets fully priced in a Fed rate hike at the September FOMC meeting.
- ASEAN: Higher UST yields weighed on regional bonds. MYR government bonds cheapened by 1-2bps, partly reflecting rotation into corporate bonds. Malaysia also priced its first USD sovereign sukuk in over three years, raising USD1.5bn via dual tranches—a 5.75-year at 15bps over UST and a 10-year at 25bps over UST—both tightening significantly from initial price guidance. In Indonesia, the belly underperformed, with the 5Y IndoGB yield rising 7bps to just below 7.30%. Focus now shifts to today's SRBI auction, with BI reducing the auction frequency to once a week (from twice weekly) for the period of 23 Jul to 19 Aug. Meanwhile, ThaiGBs cheapened by 1-4bps as non-resident bond outflows widened to THB5.72bn.

FX

- Majors: The DXY gained 0.3%, with most G10 currencies retreating, except for the CAD. The GBP (-0.4%) came under pressure amid concerns over potential fiscal policy shifts under PM Burnham, while the JPY also fell 0.4%, despite reports that BOJ officials are open to a faster pace of rate hikes and June CPI accelerating to 1.7% yoy (May: 1.5%). The EUR (-0.3%) and CHF (-0.3%) also weakened after the ECB delivered a hawkish hold at 2.25%. President Lagarde highlighted upside inflation risks and reinforced expectations of a 25bp rate hike in Sep.
- ASEAN: ASEAN currencies weakened against a firmer greenback. The IDR (-0.2%) underperformed as markets continued to digest BI's decision to keep the policy rate unchanged at 5.75%. The MYR, SGD and THB also weakened slightly as higher oil prices weighed on regional sentiment.

HIGHLIGHTS

Macro: China is seeking feedback from companies, business groups and local governments on a proposed China-US tariff reduction framework covering about USD30bn in bilateral trade, as both sides work to finalise reciprocal tariff cuts under a newly established Board of Trade aimed at expanding trade after last year's tariff-war truce.

Macro: US initial jobless claims fell to 187k in 18 Jul (consensus: 212k, prior: 209k), as labour market supported by limited layoffs and constrained labour supply despite modest hiring.

Macro: Finance Minister Purbaya Yudhi Sadewa said the government will use Finance Ministry special mission vehicles (SMVs) and other off-budget financing schemes to help settle the USD7.3bn Whoosh railway debt to Chinese creditors, aiming to minimise the fiscal burden and preserve state budget resources for other priority programmes, while ruling out the use of proceeds from the planned Panda bond issuance.

Macro: Malaysia's Treasury Secretary-General Johan said the government is reviewing investment incentives following the AI-driven data centre boom, with future incentives to focus on job creation, economic complexity and domestic value creation rather than capital expenditure.
